Dorothy and the Wizard in Oz

By L. Frank Baum

"The Wizard of Oz Man"

This new "OZ" book continues Mr. Baum's fascinating wonder-tale about the Land of Oz and its charming fairy folk. Dorothy, together with a little boy companion, "Zeb," and "Jim, the Cab Horse," are swallowed up in an earthquake, only to reach a strange "vegetable" land whence, by the aid of the Wizard of Oz, whom they meet there, they escape to the Land of Oz and renew acquaintance with the Princess Ozma, The Scarecrow, The Tin Woodman, The Cowardly Lion and all the old favorites. Among the new and delightful characters are "Eureka," Dorothy's pink kitten, and "The Nine Tiny Piglets."

The Most Beautiful Children's Book Published

Joel Chandler Harris

Joel Chandler Harris

The NATION writes:

"The news of the death of Joel Chandler Harris will bring a sense of personal loss to readers all over the English-speaking world. Few modern writers were more widely known, still fewer will be remembered more affectionately. His popularity was due chiefly to the dialect stories founded on bits of negro folklore, and filled with imagination, delightful simplicity, and characteristically quaint humor, but he had also a large body of other readers for his more ambitious stories and his miscellaneous writings."

HIS BOOKS:

Uncle Remus and his Friends. With 12 full-page Illus. by A. B. FROST. $1.50.
 Nights with Uncle Remus. Illustrated. $1.50; paper, 50 cents.

THE CALL OF THE SOUTH

By ROBERT LEE DURHAM Illustrated. $1.50

Mr. Durham's powerful novel dealing with the race question continues to be one of the most discussed works of fiction of the year.

"'A terrific story, but a true one.' That is what the thinking world is saying concerning THE CALL OF THE SOUTH."—The Baltimore Sun.

PEGGY AT SPINSTER FARM

By HELEN M. WINSLOW Illustrated. $1.50

Miss Winslow is one of the most prominent clubwomen of the country, and her views are always of interest. "Peggy" is proving a delight to thousands of women, as the record of an experiment made by one of their sex, and a vade mecum for countless others.

The MAKING of PERSONALITY

By BLISS CARMAN Boxed. $1.50

Not since the publication of "The Simple Life" has a volume of essays attracted such general attention as Mr. Carman's new book.

"A beautiful contribution to that oldest of all the arts, the art of living, which we are all, by reason of our existence, compelled to face. He has caught the breezy spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson."—Current Literature.

READY AT ONCE

A NEW VOLUME OF SEA STORIES

THE BLUE PETER

By MORLEY ROBERTS Illustrated. $1.50

"If any one writes better sea stories than Mr. Roberts, we don't know who it is," says the New York Sun.

When THE FLYING CLOUD, Mr. Roberts' first long sea story was published, the New York Times Saturday Review said: "It is the drama of the sea; human nature stripped naked by salt water alchemy and painted only as the author or Joseph Conrad could paint it. . . . A corking story, a ripping good story."

NOTES IN SEASON.

PUBLISHERS' CATALOGUES for insertion in the "Trade List Annual for 1908," must reach the binders, J. F. Tapley Co., 531 West 37th Street, New York City, on or before July 31.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will bring out on July 25 a story by a new writer, Mrs. Nellie L. McClung, entitled "Sowing Seeds in Danny." The story is of a humorous character and has to do with the bringing up of "Danny," in whom the "Pink Lady" sows seeds, largely for the sake of her report to the next annual convention of the Society for Propagation of Lofty Ideals.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the third volume of Professor John Bassett Moore's edition of "The Works of James Buchanan," which covers the period of our country's political history from the beginning of 1836 to the middle of 1838. They have also just brought out a work on "Practical Metallurgy," by Thomas Turner, which is intended to serve as a general introduction to the subject for the beginners.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. call attention to the following of Joel Chandler Harris's books on their list: "Uncle Remus and His Friends," with illustrations by A. B. Frost; "Nights with Uncle Remus," "Mingo," "Balaam and His Master," "Sister Jane," "Tales of the Home Folks in Peace and War," "Little Mr. Thimblefinger," "Mr. Rabbit at Home," "The Story of Aaron," "Aaron in the Wildwoods" and "Plantation Pageants." Nearly all of these volumes have illustrations and retail at from fifty cents to $2.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish on July 25 "The Car and the Lady," by Percy F. Megargel and Grace Sartwell Mason. Mr. Megargel is known as a long-distance motor driver in this country, having driven during the last three years various machines from New York City to St. Louis, to Portland, Ore., to Los Angeles, Cal., etc. Grace S. Mason is a well-known contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and other journals, and this collaboration promises to be most successful. The forthcoming story, in which he collaborates with Miss Mason, is described as one of active love and business rivalry between an Italian designer and driver of high-grade foreign cars and a young American manufacturer. The conflict is to be decided in favor of the winner of this race from New York to Portland, and the competitors put up $50,000 between them.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will publish shortly a new book for boys by Herbert E. Strang, to be entitled "King of the Air." In this story, the plot of which was suggested to the author by the daring capture by Raisuli of Kaid McLean, the British Commissioner to Morocco, the young hero, having a turn for mechanical invention, contrives a machine that represents a great advance on what has previously been accomplished in the direction of aerial navigation. He has nearly perfected his invention when a British diplomat is captured by Morocco tribesmen, and his assistance is invoked in order to rescue the captive without negotiations that may involve international difficulties. The story tells of the adventures that befall him in his perilous mission, and, thanks to the author's knowledge of Eastern races, throws light on the problems that call for solution in Morocco.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

This volume and the Index to it, entered June 27 in "Weekly Record," form the three years' record of the publications of the United States. It was first planned to include all this material once more in a five years' cumulation, but it would be too bulky and far too expensive. The American Catalogue will therefore be cumulated every three years. The directory of publishers for the three years included in the Index volume is also issued separately. See below in this issue.

Atlay, J. B. The Victorian chancellors. In 2 v. v. 2, Lord St. Leonards, Lord Cranworth, Lord Chelmsford, Lord Campbell, Lord Westbury, Lord Cairns, Lord Hatherly, Lord Selborne, Lord Halsbury, and Lord Herschell; with portraits. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. 11+476 p. 8°, cl., *$4 net.

Said to be the first book of Chinese stories ever printed in English. The stories, familiar in the home and school life of the children of China, show different phases of the character of a people in the very processes of formation. It is earnestly hoped that this English presentation of them will help a little towards a better understanding and appreciation of Chinese characters as a whole. Designed for supplementary reading.

The real diary of a real farm—a farm that is made to pay, not a fancy place for elaborate experiments. The precarious condition of English farming, the problems of laborers, land and crops are dealt with, and much practical, though not technical, information is given, but the chief charm of the book lies in the exquisite descriptions of rustic scenery through all its changes, from the time when "one crocus opened its golden cup on the slope of the lawn bank," till the days of December sunrises, "crough to drive a painter mad with envy and despair."

This novel is a study of married life in the United States to-day. The scene shifts from an inland town to St. Louis, then to New York, with intervals of rest on a farm in Vermont. The husbands devoted wholly to business, the wives wholly to selfish pleasures, the unrest, the physical ill-health, the moral dangers of this plan of living are described in boldest language. Incidentally the great railroad trusts, the specialist physicians, the vast hotels are graphically pictured. That man and woman are both to blame for the circumstances from which both suffer is the keynote.

The story is in the form of an autobiography. It begins with the childhood of the hero, who is the natural son of a Spanish rubber merchant. The power exercised by the Spanish government, through the church in past days, and the cruel and dishonest treatment received by the natives who gather the rubber is realistically portrayed. The period is a revolutionary one, the politics of the time being intelligently described. The author travelled and explored largely in South Africa, living and travelling with the natives, from whom he gathered many of the facts. He has written "Around the Caribbean and across Panama" and other works.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 18, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN.

WITH the dog days upon us, and plans for summer and vacation pleasures arranged for or under debate, the bookseller who would keep up an active interest in his business must begin now, if he has not already taken steps in that direction, to make his store attractive for the jaded customer that remains in town, and to follow, so far as it may be possible, his old clients to their "bungalows" or whatever other form their resting-places for the summer may assume.

The store, in the first place, should be kept cool by admitting as little sunlight as possible during the hotter part of the day, and by installing electric fans if the store cannot otherwise be kept at a low temperature. All fussy decorations should be removed, and the tables arranged so as to afford the customer plenty of elbow room and a sense of freedom to loaf.

The windows should be dressed in summer garb and suggest the season in everything displayed. The basis of the book-window dressing might be cool green and white tissue papers or muslins that easily lend themselves to decorations for the floor and sides of the window. The books to be selected should be such as commend themselves to the summer lounge, whether he is contemplating an excursion to the seashore or mountain, or is a stay-at-home or a visitor to town. The new novels will take a prominent place; these may be supplemented with the cheaper issues of good novels, nature books, books on fishing and out-door sports in general, guide books, etc. While bringing these lighter classes of books to the front, the more serious books must not be overlooked. This is the season of the year when readers have leisure, and the right kind of a book if properly presented to the right person will have as good a chance of a sale as its lighter and more ephemeral companion—and with a better profit.

In the window devoted to stationery, fancy goods, etc., the outdoor goods, games, hammocks, fancy paper napkins, Chinese lanterns, flags, sporting goods in general, photo supplies and the like should be judiciously displayed alternately with writing papers and envelopes, leather goods and cutlery apt to be used by tourists and vacationists. The bookseller's facilities for printing visiting cards, preparing individual stationery, etc., should also be prominently featured. These windows should be changed frequently and should never be crowded.

A post-card display should be a regular feature throughout the summer season, and should be within easy reach of the customer, with the local cards in a prominent place, because in these the visitor is apt to be most interested at first. There are now a dozen or more post-card racks on the market which will be found helpful in displaying the cards to the best advantage.

An important aid in summer bookselling is a tempting house-catalogue. This should be prepared with a view of bringing to the special attention of summer visitors the most attractive books not only of the present season but also of other seasons, with a hint of the delights stored in them. Appended to the book list may be a brief resumé of the other seasonable goods, stationery, etc., kept in stock. Such a catalogue will be found serviceable by two classes of trade: by city dealers with regular customers whom it is desirable to follow "with the compliments of the season" into their summer haunts, and who may retain trade by filling orders by mail for those who go far out of sight of any bookstore, but can be cultivated by the aid of the post-office; and by booksellers who desire to pleasantly acquaint summer visitors that there is a bookstore near at hand from which their wants can be supplied. With such an aid old customers may be retained, and with energy and foresight much new trade can be created.

Another summer "wrinkle" is housecleaning. Stock during July and August is apt to be at its lowest, transient trade will be slow, and the assistants will have time that cannot be employed to better advantage. Obsolete or broken and damaged stock and other impedimenta should be weeded out and displayed at prices that will appeal to "shoppers" and tempt "bargain hunters."

People are slow to think in this weather and need to be reminded—even to be prodded. Hence, the bookseller, during a season that to most people means a period of recreation or loafing, must be ever more active and watchful to maintain the continuity of business and to "bridge over" until the fall and holiday season brings relief.

CONTINUANCE OF THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION ASSURED.

A MEETING of the American Publishers' Association was held in the Presbyterian Building, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, at 2 P.M., July 15, in response to a call issued on July 2 by the Board of Directors, to consider the continuance and the future administration of the Association in view of the probable resignation of certain firms who are affected by the text-book situation in Texas and other States. The principals and representatives of about thirty members of the Association, from New York City, Boston and Philadelphia, were present, and, in the absence of Frank H. Dodd, the president, who is on his way to Europe, Frank H. Scott, of the Century Company, presided.

A resolution looking to an amendment of the by-laws governing legal proceedings was approved, and it was the unanimous feeling of all those present that the contemplated withdrawals should not affect the policy of the Association, which should continue as heretofore.

TO SAVE BOOKSTORES FROM EXTINCTION.

REFERRING to the court decision rendered last week in regard to the control of prices of copyrighted books, Frank H. Dodd, president of the American Publishers' Association, made the following statement on July 10:

"The decision of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court, handed down July 8, in the case of R. H. Macy & Co. vs. The American Publishers' Association, affirms the decision of Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, in behalf of the publishers, declaring that Macy's were not entitled to damages on account of the publishers' refusal to sell them copyrighted books. The effect of this decision is that the former agreement of the members of the American Publishers' Association not to sell copyrighted books to Macy's is declared to be a proper and legal agreement, and not in any way violating the anti-trust laws.

"The statements which have heretofore appeared in the daily journals as to the litigation between publishers and undersellers have come almost exclusively from one side. The interest expressed in the matter by the general public, however, seems now to call for some statement on behalf of the publishers.

"Such headlines as 'Publishers Aghast at the Supreme Court Decision' are entirely without warrant. The facts are, briefly, as follows: The American Publishers' Association was organized seven years ago under the laws of the State of New York, and the agreement then made between its members has been declared by the highest court of the State to be lawful, so far as copyrighted books are concerned. This declaration has been upheld in various proceedings by the lower courts again and again, and stands unaltered. This organization was formed under the advice of eminent counsel not associated with the formation of trusts. The publishers have not done anything contrary to law or fair dealing, and when they were advised that, while lawful in the State of New York, certain conditions of their agreement might be called into question in other States under the Sherman anti-trust act they nearly two years ago abrogated it, and the publisher who wishes to regulate the prices at which his own copyrighted books shall be sold is exercising for himself solely his undoubted right to do so. The suits which have recently been decided in the United States Supreme Court were brought to test the question as to whether the violation of conditions of sale of a copyrighted book was in itself an infringement of the copyright. This the court has denied, but there is nothing in the decision which affects the right of a publisher to impose such conditions of sale on his copyrighted books as he may find advisable. Neither the United States Supreme Court nor the Circuit Court of Appeals has held that the American Publishers' Association is illegal or acting in restraint of trade, though every effort was made by Macy's counsel to have it so held. There is no decision in any of our courts which obliges a publisher to supply his copyrighted books except upon his own terms.

"The object which the publishers have all along had in view is not to increase their own prices or profits, but to guarantee dealers in books a fair profit such as will enable them to maintain themselves, and thus to preserve the bookstore from decline or even extinction. It is not always realized that this occupation so serviceable, if not vital, to the intelligence of the community is yet, in the nature of the case, poorly remunerated. Compared with those dealing in the necessities or even luxuries of life, it is of small volume, infinite detail, and large expense in proportion to the output. It requires special training and unusual intelligence. Not only must a bookseller be familiar with the names, publishers, and contents of the 8000 or 10,000 new books issued every year, but also with 50,000 to 100,000 older books which are in print and demanded from time to time, to say nothing of the vast field of old books. This applies to the business of the bookstore proper and to some of the best of the department stores. In many of the department stores, however, books are dealt with in a different fashion. Their stock consists almost entirely of cheap reprints of standard authors and the more popular novels of the day. As can readily be seen, this plan excludes from display and sale the more serious books of literary value which are really the more important.

"The publishers have tried not only to conserve the bookstores, but to foster the business of department stores in the better class of literature. This can only be done by the assurance of a fair profit. Should they be unsuccessful the inevitable outcome will be a lessened output of the more serious and valuable books. The difficulty of selling these has already increased to a serious extent. The progressive publisher will, of course, adapt himself to the market, and should it become necessary for him to publish nothing but light fiction he can do so. But if the business had no higher ideals than this many of those who have given their lives to it would be engaged in other and more remunerative callings.

"Statements which have recently been made by the undersellers mentioned as to the inordinate profits in publishing are so erroneous in detail and so misleading in their deductions that it is incredible that those making them really believe them to be true. They leave entirely out of account not only the plant, (including the typesetting, illustrations, author's corrections and plates,) which must be created before a book can be manufactured, but the entire cost of conducting a business of which each book must bear its share. The share which each copy must bear of the cost of the plant depends upon the number sold, and in many cases enough are never sold to cover it, to say nothing of the author's royalties, which are far higher than has been represented, and the advertising, a large item. For making a similar statement the London Times was compelled to pay to Mr. John Murray damages for libel to the extent of $37,500. In the trial of the case all the facts concerning the book in question, 'The Life of Queen Victoria,' which was alleged to be published at an inordinate price and at an extortionate profit, were brought out, and it was proved that the profit of the publisher had been so small as to be entirely inadequate for the risk and capital involved.

"In their effort to protect the bookselling business the American publishers have only been doing what has been sanctioned by long established law and custom in Germany for two hundred years, and in all the countries of Europe for a greater or less time. It is only in the United States that any question has arisen as to the right of the publishers to control the conditions under which books are sold. The question has arisen here mainly in connection with the misapplication to the American Publishers' Association of the term 'trust,' and with the application to the selling of books of certain provisions in the anti-trust laws, which laws had been framed to protect the interests of the community against corporations that actually were carrying on operations as trusts; that is, for the purpose, through the stifling of competition, of increasing selling prices.

"FRANK H. DODD.
"President American Publishers' Association."

Booksellers will serve their own interests by giving wide publicity among their customers to the above statement, copies of which will be supplied, upon application, by F. C. J. Tessaro, Manager American Publishers' Association, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS APPEAL.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, through its president, Herman Ridder, has sent to President Roosevelt a letter invoking his aid in the association's effort to stop the oppression of paper combinations.

Mr. Ridder recalls that the association had been informed that the courts would provide adequate remedies and had submitted its evidence against seven groups of paper makers. The result had been insignificant. The Fibre and Manila Association, the only one brought to book, got off easy, says Mr. Ridder. "We maintain," he says, "that such a finish to the procedure is a miscarriage of justice. When a fine of $48,000 is imposed for an extortion of $2,000,000 it places a premium upon lawlessness and brings vividly to us a realization of the hopelessness of relief under methods that prevail, especially when the United States District Attorney, while granting immunity to the individuals, urges leniency for the corporations which employ them."

Mr. Ridder says also:

So far as we have been able to learn no steps have been taken against the Box Board Pool or against the Sulphite Pulp Association, whose by-laws and membership were submitted to the Department of Justice eight months ago, or against the other offenders.

The operations of the Box Board Pool in twenty-six months included invoices of $32,000,000, with net profits of $4,835,652 on $53,677 tons.

The counsel of the paper makers who pleaded guilty in New York on the 19th inst. stated that their output represented only 23 per cent. of the total production of wrapping paper. The letters set forth in the indictment and the books and records now in the possession of the United States District Attorney at New York indicate that the Western Fibre and Manila Mills, which were under distinct prohibition against restriction of output, met in November, 1907, and decided to restrict production. We are confident those records will also disclose the methods by which the 23 per cent. of indicted paper makers secured the co-operation of the other 77 per cent. to maintain the extraordinary advances in price.

Mr. Ridder cites instances which he thinks a jury ought to look into. Again he says:

The Fibre and Manila Association, the Box Board Pool and the Sulphite Pulp Association—each and all affect the news print paper situation. When mills which can be changed to make news print paper with slight cost are made excessively profitable in other directions by these pooling arrangements then their equipment is kept out of news print paper production and a news print paper famine is promoted. Meanwhile the news print paper companies are aiming to maintain what are believed to be "agreed prices," and are keeping their mills partially closed because the consumers will not buy more than a hand to mouth supply at the present high figures.

In view of the seeming immunity of individuals, the inadequacy of penalties and the apparent hopelessness of relief, does not this situation require drastic treatment? May we not ask you to bring these law breakers to their senses and to end a lawless condition which interferes with a return of prosperity?

JUSTICE DEUEL UPHELD.

THE Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in New York City sustained on the 8th inst., unanimously, the findings of ex-Justice Stover, who, as referee, reported adversely on the application of Robert J. Collier, District Attorney Jerome and Edward M. Shepard for the removal of Justice Deuel of the Court of Special Sessions, because of his connection with Town Topics.

THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF ANTIQUARIAN BOOKSELLERS.

THE title of the Second-hand Booksellers' Association, of London, has been changed to The International Association of Antiquarian Booksellers. The reason for the change is that a number of booksellers in various parts of the world have become members. This extension of membership has proved extremely useful to all concerned, since information can now be obtained, and be registered in a central bureau, respecting persons who order on credit. The subscription is five shillings per annum. An enquiry fee respecting any person in any part of the world is sixpence. Application for accounts which members find themselves unable to collect is made for a fee of sixpence, and 5 per cent. is charged upon the amount collected by means of the Association, when the amount does not exceed £5, and 2½ per cent. on larger amounts.

The following American firms are among the members of the committee: Charles E. Goodspeed, Boston, and the Shepard Book Company, Salt Lake City.

All communications should be addressed to the honorary secretary, Frank Karslake, 35 Pond Street, Hampstead, London, N. W.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S PUBLISHERS.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS to correct certain erroneous impressions of President Roosevelt's publishing relations that were circulated last week have published the following letter:

"... Since the beginning of his career as an author, with the publication, in 1882, of 'The War of 1812,' the writings of Mr. Roosevelt have been issued by G. P. Putnam's Sons, in London as well as in New York.

"The set of Roosevelt's works continues to be issued by our house in a variety of editions. The only Roosevelt volumes not bearing the Putnam imprint cover certain productions which the author found it to his advantage to bring into print first as serials in magazines. We may mention that Mr. Roosevelt is still under contract with us for the completion of his important historical narrative, The Winning of the West, which is to be brought down to the close of the Mexican war. The publishers found it necessary, in connection with the rather pressing claims upon the time of their author in the last eight years, to extend the time for the fulfillment of this contract.

ANOTHER BOOK THIEF AT LARGE.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: We should like to warn the trade against one I. J. Rogers, a singer, who was caught stealing books from our store. He is about thirty-seven years old, over six feet tall, dark, with short mustache, and weighs about 175 pounds. He is very genteel in manner and appearance, and usually operates with a suit case.

AMERICAN FICTION IN DEMAND IN MAY.

THE following, according to The Bookman, are the six most popular novels in order of demand during the month of May:

POINTS.

1. Mr. Crewe's Career. Churchill. Macmillan..... 301
2. The Barrier. Beach. Harper..... 245
3. The Coast of Chance. Chamberlain. Bobbs-Merrill..... 139
4. The Husbands of Edith. McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead..... 125
5. Old Wives for New. Phillips. Appleton..... 56
- The Primadonna. Crawford. Macmillan..... 52
- Rose MacLeod. Brown. Houghton, Mifflin..... 52

The list for April has been corrected so as to put "The Coast of Chance" in the fifth place instead of "The Lady of Decoration," which takes sixth place instead of "The Fair Moon of Bath," which thus disappears altogether from the list.

BOOKS IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND DURING JUNE.

ACCORDING to the London Book Monthly the following books were uppermost in demand in England during the month of June:

1. The Revolt in Hindustan, 1857-'59, by Sir Evelyn Wood. Methuen.
2. Miscellanies, by John Morley. Macmillan.
3. Pauline, by W. E. Norris. Constable.
4. Heather, by John Trevena. Alston Rivers.
5. The Red Lily, by Anatole France, translated by Winifred Stephens. John Lane.
6. The Shoulders of Atlas, by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman. Harpers.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FERDINAND MORAS, who died at Germantown, Pa., July 10, was one of the first to establish a lithographic plant in this country. In 1854 he put up a lithographic plant in Philadelphia, where he was in business for more than thirty years. In 1890 he retired from business. Mr. Moras was born in 1821 in Rhenish Prussia. Mr. Moras published a book of poems in 1882, of which he was the author, the illustrator and engraver.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON LAIDLAW, Jr., died on July 11, at his home in New York City. Mr. Laidlaw was born in Jersey City, N. J., July 7, 1869. For a time he was in the stationery business in Forty-second Street, New York City, as a member of the firm of Dixon & Laidlaw. His first novel, "Purgatory," was published in 1891. The following year he published "How She Married Him, and Other Stories," and "The Charms of Music," a play, was printed the same year. His produced plays were "The Darkest Hour," 1893; "An Angel's Sin," 1895; "Love as a Tonic," 1895; "The Going of the White Swan," 1895; "The Game of Three," 1896; "A Pair of Misfits," 1899; "Phyllis," an opera libretto, 1900, and "His Musical Friend," 1907. The music for "Phyllis" was written by Richard Henry Warren. It was produced by the Strollers Club, of which Mr. Laidlaw was a member, at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Laidlaw also was a contributor to the magazines.

GENERAL ERASTUS BLAKESLEE, soldier, clergyman, author and editor, and prominent in the Sunday-school world as the author, editor and publisher of "Graded Sunday School Lessons," died at his home in Brookline, Mass., July 12. He was many times commended for his bravery during the war between the states, and his promotion to brevet brigadier-general was rapid. Turning to the ministry after the war, he won wide notice for his work in improving the study of the Bible in the Sunday schools. He was born at Plymouth, Conn., September 2, 1838. He was graduated from Williston Seminary in 1859; Yale in 1863, receiving the degree of Master of Arts one year later, and from Andover Theological Seminary in 1879. He held pastorates in Greenfield and Spencer, Mass., and Fairhaven, Conn. He was president of the Bible Study Publishing Company, an associate member of Victoria Institute, London, and a member of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MYRTLE REED has written a new story, entitled "Flower of the Dusk."

THE memory of Maria Mitchell, Nantucket's famous daughter, who during her lifetime attained world-wide fame as an astronomer, was honored on July 15 by the dedication and formal opening of an astronomical observatory and library building at Nantucket, Mass. The observatory contains astronomical instruments used by Miss Mitchell in many of her observations at Vassar College and other places that attracted tokens of appreciation from the kings of Denmark and Italy. The library sheltered in the memorial building is composed of the collection of Miss Mitchell and her brother, Professor Henry Mitchell.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE London Chronicle still insists that the new proprietors of The Times include Lord Rothschild, Lord Cromer and Lord Northcliffe, the last-named having a controlling interest.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish during the fall in Lippincott's Magazine two articles by Ouida that have reposed in their vaults in accordance with arrangement that they were not to be published until after the death of the writer. The articles, although written several years ago, are said to have a distinct bearing upon the "votes for women" campaign being carried out with such vigor in England and elsewhere at the present moment.

PERSONAL NOTES.

FRANK O. EVANS, of Raphael Tuck & Sons Company, sailed on the 10th inst. for a two-months' visit to Europe.

WILLIAM HARVEY MINER, who recently organized The Torch Press and its coadjutor, The Torch Press Book Shop, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., left for London on the 15th inst., accompanied by his wife. Mr. Miner goes abroad at this time primarily in the interest of the book department of his establishment, but will endeavor to secure a well-earned vacation as a "side line." He can be located at his London office, 43 Museum Street, until September 20.

BUSINESS NOTES.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo.—E. T. Ashby has sold his book business to F. M. Applegate.

HOUSTON, TEX.—The Teetshorn Company, dealers in books, stationery and office supplies, have succeeded the Purdy Book and Stationery Company, and will continue business at 1009 Congress Avenue.

MUSCATINE, O.—The Wagner Brothers have purchased the book business of the Seiler Brothers, at 119 East Second Street. The new proprietors have already taken charge of the establishment.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Professor U. S. Grant Moore and Guy I. Colby have organized a company to be known as the C. M. Book Company. The company will sell the books edited by the Rev. E. B. Rogers, of this city.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

LIBRACO, LTD., 60 Wilson Street, Finsbury Square, E. C., London, will bring out in August the third volume of the "L. A. Class List of Best Books and Annual of Bibliography, 1907-1908," edited by H. Y. Hopwood. The volume is published in connection with the Annual Exhibition of Best Books at the Conference of Libraries. Each subject is prepared by an expert, the contributors being H. R. Tedder, T. W. Lyster, H. Guppy, J. Peacock, J. Minto, J. Duff Brown, J. Woolmar and others. The classification adopted is, in the main, that of the Brussels extension of Dewey. A complete subject index is also provided. The first two volumes cover the period from 1905-1907. (Each, 1s. 6d. net.)

THE AMERICAN CERAMIC SOCIETY, Columbus, O., have undertaken the publication of the second edition of "A Bibliography of Clays and the Ceramic Arts," by Dr. John Casper Branner, the well-known geologist of Leland Stanford University. The original edition of this work, which is the only one of its kind, was published in 1896 as Bulletin 143 of the U. S. Geological Survey, and contained 2961 titles, as against 6027 titles contained in the new edition. The additions, however, are not entirely of titles published since 1896, but include many books and papers that were overlooked in the preparation of the first edition. The scope of the work is as broad as that for which the American Ceramic Society stands. Reference to the origin, character and distribution of clays and to the science and technique in manufacture of cement, brick, terra cotta, pottery, metal enamelling, ceramic decoration, etc., are given with proportional space and consideration. No student in any of these branches can afford to be without this bibliography. (8°, cl., $2.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE "House of the Seven Gables," at Salem, Mass., made famous by Nathaniel Hawthorne, was sold on July 9 to Miss Caroline C. Emmerton, who will turn it into a Settlement house.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, INC., has just brought out the third volume of "Mission Preaching for a Year," edited by the Rev. W. Henry Hunt. It contains sermons for the present Trinity season, selected from the writings of Bishop Knox, W. J. Sparrow Simpson, Scott Holland, et al.

P. BLAKISTON'S SON & Co. have just brought out the second volume of "Borderland Studies," by Dr. George M. Gould, a collection of essays and addresses dealing with a variety of medical and other problems, such as "The History of the House," "The Seven Deadly Sins of Civilization," "Child Fetiches," etc.

THE LAMB PUBLISHING COMPANY, 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has just issued its trade catalogue, and has fitted up an attractive sample room. Local and out-of-town buyers are cordially invited to examine their large and well-selected stock of sets in cloth and extra bindings, which are offered at advantageous prices.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will bring out early next month a new nature book by the blind naturalist, Clarence Hawkes, entitled "Black Bruin, an Autobiography of a Bear," which will tell the life story of an animal in the woods and in captivity. They have in preparation a cheap popular edition of Mr. Hawkes's early success, "Shaggy Coat," which has for its chief actor a beaver.

IN the issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of April 25 was an advertisement offering a prize of $100 for a satisfactory subject and title of a five-volume set of books. The publishers inserting the advertisement have carefully examined all the replies received, but regretfully have to report that in their judgment no one has suggested a satisfactory subject and title, but they desire to express through us their thanks for the interest taken by so many in the matter.

PAIRPOINT BROTHERS, 80 Dean Street, Soho Square, London, W., Eng., have brought out a second and considerably enlarged edition of Francis Pairpoint's interesting guide to "Antique Plated Ware," which is, practically, a history of old Sheffield plate, containing full particulars of close plating, many illustrations and upwards of fifty makers' marks and signs—useful information for collectors and dealers. The booklet may be had in cloth for 2s. 6d. and in paper at 1s. 1d.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have just ready "Five Months on a Derelict," by Edwin J. Houston, a story suited to young people, telling how a skipper took his nephews for a voyage to raise a derelict, and giving much information regarding the methods of doing away with these special dangers to navigation; also, "Christian Epoch Makers," by Professor H. C. Vedder, who has gathered together much religious, historical information which he presents in an interesting manner.

REILLY & BRITTON have just ready the new Frank L. Baum book—"Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz"—in which Mr. Baum's fascinating wonder-tale about the Land of Oz and its delightful fairy folk is continued. Dorothy, with a little boy companion "Zeb," and "Jim, the Cab-Horse," are swallowed up in an earthquake only to reach a strange "vegetable" land, whence, by the aid of the Wizard of Oz, they escape to the Land of Oz and renew acquaintance with all their old friends. The book contains 16 full-color pages and a number of black-and-white text pictures by John R. Neill.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce a work in two volumes, entitled "The North-West Passage—being the Record of a Voyage of Exploration of the Ship 'Gjoa,' in the Years 1903-07," by Roald Amundsen, with a supplement by Lieutenant Hansen. The work tells in detail the story of the seven men who in a herring boat about half the size of the ordinary American fishing schooner demonstrated that a navigable waterway exists along the whole northern coast of the American continent, a contention that Arctic explorers for four hundred years had vainly been trying to prove. The work is promised for September.

THE COCHRANE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Tribune Building, New York City, will publish on July 20 "Hawaiian Idylls of Love and Death," by the Rev. Herbert H. Gowen, a collection of attractive short stories concerned mainly with incidents bearing on the career of Kamehameha the Great, the Napoleon of the Pacific, who subdued one chief and one island after the other until, in 1809, he became master of the whole group of the Sandwich Islands. They will publish at the same time a story of life in the Southern States, entitled "Guy Hunter," by William W. Stark, a judge, banker and leader of the Democracy of Georgia.

CASSELL & COMPANY have in preparation a volume entitled "Napoleon and His Fellow Travellers," by Clement Shorter, author of "Immortal Memories," etc. Much of the material used by Mr. Shorter is taken from some rare books that have never been reprinted since their first publication, nearly a century ago. These include the "Narrative" of William Warden, and a rare pamphlet, privately printed by Lord Lyttleton, giving an account of interesting conversations on board the Northumberland that are known to few students of the epoch. The story of Napoleon's appearance and conversation at the time of his surrender is given by George Home in the "Diary of an Aristocrat," a book suppressed on publication.

CHATTO & WINDUS, London, will publish for the Florence Press a series of Florence Press Books to be printed in a special "Florence" type designed by Herbert P. Horne. The "trial impression" is to be a reprint of the earliest known guide-book to Florence, "Memoriale di molte statue e pitture, sono inclyta cipta di Florentia," published in 1510. The first of the series proper will be "The Fioretti, or Little Flowers of S. Francis." This is a newly revised version of Professor Arnold's translation, and will contain colotype reproductions of twenty-five contemporary drawings by an unknown hand, which are found in a manuscript preserved in the Laurentian library. Chaucer's "Romaunt of the Rose" will be the second book. The edition of each of the above three books will be 500 copies on paper, and ten copies on vellum.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just ready a new work by N. G. Lenotre, entitled "The Daughter of Louis XVI., Maria Theresa-Charlotte of France, Duchess d' Angouleme." The author has drawn material from contemporary documents, memoirs and diaries. The illustrations are a valuable addition to the book, and contain among other pictures of interest a portrait of the princess taken during her imprisonment in the tower of the temple. Under the unusual title of "The Peacock's Pleasance," just brought out by this firm, the following topics are presented to the lovers of gardens: "Ploroma," "A Beautiful World," "Of a Little Old House in Banffshire," "In Praise of Birds," "The Human Interest of a Garden," "Enigma," "The Haunted Wood," "An [Almost] Ideal City," and "Woods of the Garden."

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION have in preparation an autobiography of the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, entitled "Some Memories." It begins with the story of his life as mill hand and blacksmith and Methodist preacher in his Yorkshire home in England, and his early struggles in this country in the last half century. The book will have as a frontispiece a photogravure portrait of Dr. Collyer. They also announce the third of the Rev. J. T. Sunderland's scholarly books on the Bible, entitled "The Bible, Its Origin, Growth, and Character." The first of these books answered the question, "What is the Bible?" and the second defined its place among the sacred books of the world. Another book on their list for early publication is an American edition of "Where the Light Dwelleth," a book of sermons lately printed in England that has attracted some attention.

HILLS & HAFELY Co., 27 East 22d Street, New York, have added a number of attractive new cards to their For the Empire series, suitable for the Christmas and New Year seasons, as birthday cards and wedding congratulations. The series includes four hundred varieties—dainty productions in chromogravure, photogravure, air-brush, mother-of-pearl, hand-painting and illuminating, etc., designed and produced at Ye St. Luke's Press in London. The Della Robbia Plaques in this series make particularly handsome presents. Their Bridge Scores and Progressive Whist outfits will be found attractive and profitable side-lines for any bookseller and stationer. Those who are delegated to get up children's parties will no doubt find the Hills & Hafely Company's Invitation Card For a Children's Party, twelve folding cards, two designs, each card in an envelope, an inexpensive and artistic aid in keeping the little guests informed of the date in a manner they are not likely to forget. In the line of Wall Texts, rubric motto cards, gift booklets, birthday books and religious booklets this firm have some novelties that will make even the blasé sit up.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly a manual on "German Inflections," by Professor H. C. Bierwirth, of Harvard. As an additional means of bringing into greater prominence the resemblances and differences in inflections, the material is arranged in parallels, so that the student's eye is made to assist his mind. Every good teacher of German wishes to use German as the language of the classroom, but how can he do it with his short lesson hour and his often large classes, without neglecting the grammar and the literature? That is the question of the hour at modern language conventions, for there has never been such a strong feeling that the spoken language is well-nigh indispensable. That, too, is the question that Professor George M. Howe, of Colorado College, tries to answer in his "First German Book," which the Holts will issue at once. He avoids the pitfalls of the Natural Method by rigid grammatical drill, such as even the German child must have in acquiring his native tongue, and he has combined this drill with cleverly arranged exercises for composition and conversation. The book should have a distinct field even in the crowd of German grammar and drill books.

R. F. FENNO & COMPANY will publish shortly a book for young people of all ages, entitled "In Peanut Land," verses and pictures by Eva Dean, that put life and ginger into every peanut woosle beast that was ever conceived. They will bring out in August a story entitled "The Student Cavaliers," by J. R. Forrest a tale of a murder mystery and the consequent adventures which divides a band of students of Jefferson College, some of whom join the ranks of the Confederate army while the others fight on the Federal side; "A Damaged Reputation," by Harold Bindloss, a story full of incident and adventure; three wedding books arranged and decorated by Eva Dean—"The Bride's Souvenir Book," "Wooden Wedding Souvenir" and "The Bride's Anniversary Book," including the two foregoing books and tin, crystal, china, silver, golden and diamond wedding souvenir in one volume; also, "Toasts and Maxims," with illustrations. They announce for the fall a work entitled "The Mastery of Mind in the Making of a Man," by Henry Frank, in which the author traces the development of the body to the influence of the mind; "The Law of the Rhythmic Breath," by E. A. Fletcher, whose guide to health is as simple as it is ancient; "An Occult's Travels," by Wilby Reichel, author of "Der Heilmagnetismus, seine Beziehung zum Sonambulismus," etc.; also, a pocket edition of "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," translated by Fitzgerald.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have in preparation a monumental work on "Medieval Architecture," by A. Kingsley Porter, who for six years has constantly applied himself to the production of this history of the origin, growth and development of Gothic architecture, making several Asiatic and European trips required by the book since his graduation from Yale. It will be supplied with a bibliography, a list of monuments and upwards of 300 illustrations. They will publish along the same lines the second volume of Russell Sturgis's splendid "History of Architecture," and Charles H. Caffin's "The Appreciation of the Drama." In fiction they promise "Hilary on Her Own," by Mabel Barnes-Grundy, author of "Hazel of Heatherland;" "Thou Fool," by J. J. Bell, author of "Wee McGregor, a novel of Scottish-English society people; also "In Calvert's Valley," by the author of "The Sowing of Alderson Cree." Miss Helen A. Clarke, the author of "Browning's Italy," has written a companion volume, entitled "Browning's England," and also "A Child's Guide to Mythology," which will be the second book in the Child's Guide Series. Alfred Harcourt and Roscoe Crosby Gaige have compiled "Books and Reading" in the Humanity Essays, and Henry W. Whitney's "Life of Lincoln" will contain much unpublished early material. George Alfred Williams will add "The Chimes" to the well-known series of illustrated Dickens books, and Margaret Coulson Walker will combine "Bird Legend and Life" in an attractive volume which will have an interest for young and old. They will also import an exhaustive book entitled "Contemporary Ireland," by Paul Dubois, the nephew of the historian Taine.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY have in preparation "Ellen Terry's Recollections," an interesting contribution to the history of the stage, with portraits and other illustrations; the third and concluding volume of the "Reminiscences of Carl Schurz;" "Reminiscences of a Ranchman," by Edgar Beecher Bronson, a fascinating narrative of the fast-fading life of the West; also, "The Boyhood of Lincoln," by Eleanor Atkinson, as touching and beautiful a record of Lincoln's early days as Miss Tarbell's "He Knew Lincoln." Their fall list of fiction is unusually strong, and contains "The Guest of Quesnay," by Booth Tarkington, said to be the best story yet written by the author of "Monsieur Beaucaire;" "The Riverman," by Stewart Edward White, author of "The Blazed Trail," etc.; "The Marquis of Loveland," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, the delightful story of a marquis in America that is strongly reminiscent of "Lady Betty;" "The Point of Honor," by Joseph Conrad, a story of the Napoleonic era; "Round the Fireside," a collection of short stories, by Conan Doyle; "The Wild Geese," by Stanley Weyman, a romantic novel of adventure; "The Great Miss Driver," by Anthony Hope, a brilliant novel of English life; "A Japanese Spy," by Lancelot Lawton, a story of present-day Japan and its people; "Barry Gordon," by William Farquhar Payson; "The Gentle Grafter," a collection of Western stories by O. Henry; "Aunt Maud," by Ernest Oldmeadow, author of "Virginie," etc., a charming novel of delightful romance in which Ernest Oldmeadow surpasses his successful previous efforts; "The Distributors," by Anthony Partridge, an absorbing novel with something new and ingenious in the way of a plot; "9009," by James Hopper and Fred. R. Bechdolt, a story of prison life, authentic as to fact, that will prove a great sensation in its startling revelation of the present management of prisons; also, "Lynch's Daughter," by Leonard Merrick, an original and delightful story of "tainted millions."

HOUGHTON-MIFFLIN Co. have in preparation a new novel by Mary Johnston, author of "To Have and to Hold," etc., presenting a vivid picture of the exciting early years of the last century—of Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, with old Virginia, with its stately homes, its beautiful women and romantic ideals as a background; "The Leaven of Love," by Clara Louise Burnham, the scene of which is at one of the famous winter resorts of Southern California, the plot having to do with the reconciliation of a charming but overwrought woman with her husband, a famous Boston organist; "The Lighted Lamp," by C. Hanford Henderson, an unconventional novel by the author of "John Percyfield;" "Though Life Us do Part," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, a story of New England life that "pulsates with the successive emotions of a noble girl, wife and mother;" "The Fair Mississippian," by Charles Egbert Craddock, in which Miss Murfree vividly paints the romantic feudal life in the great house of a Mississippi cotton plantation with accompanying excitement from nocturnal prowlers and floods; "The Calico Cat," by Charles Miner Thompson, which deals with the mystifying entanglements and laughable misunderstandings caused by an impulsive assault on a calico cat by an eminently respectable New Englander; "Amee-dee's Son," by Harry James Smith, a brilliant story describing the career of an orphan boy among the French inhabitants of Cape Breton; also, "Peter Moor's Journey to Southwest Africa," by Gustav Frenssen, translated by Margaret M. Ward, the story of the experiences of a young German volunteer in one of the recent campaigns against natives of the German colonies in Africa. For the holidays they will have a holiday edition of Aldrich's "Marjorie Daw," with illustrations and decorations in color by John Cecil Clay; "Cupid's Almanac," by Oliver Herford and John Cecil Clay, a humorous year book on "hearticulture;" also, "Ye Butcher, Ye Baker, Ye Candlestick-Maker," verses and illustrations by Robert Seaver, humorously describing the occupations of the olden days with sly, satirical allusion to their modern counterparts.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 7 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

12 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

13 Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Refers to "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY"

I WANT A MAN

A man who knows books and has enthusiasms.

A man who's had some experience in retailing—but not so much that he's convinced books can't be sold profitably.

A man on the other hand who believes that the same ingenuity and ability displayed in selling soaps and breakfast foods and fountain pens would revolutionize book-selling and reach more book-buyers than the dealer dreams of nowadays.

A man who wants to make some money for himself, but is satisfied to prove that he's making money for me before checking very heavily against these earnings.

If the right man reads this, he'll write promptly, giving his experience, qualifications, ideas, and the salary he would be willing to start on.

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

How to Help Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00

 Can we interest you? If not familiar with the "Educational List" write for a sample copy.

The Great French Detective Story

New Large Impression Now Ready

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF

The Mystery of the Yellow Room

By GASTON LEROUX

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH:—"The plot of this remarkable story is so intricately woven and so elaborately developed that the reader's attention is positively enthralled from beginning to end."

ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT:—"It is worked out with a skill that continually keeps the reader puzzled and expectant, and is told with vivacity and sparkle."

BOSTON HERALD:—"For the many who delight in following the intricacies of crime and the avenging hand of justice, this book has rare charms."

ST. PAUL DAILY NEWS:—"How he solves the mystery is what readers of the 'Yellow Room' sit up nights and forget dinner hours to find out."

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE:—"Those fond of a detective story (and what reader is not?) will find this one fully up to the most exacting taste, and spiced to the most seasoned palate."

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any trade paper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d (three half-pence) for each week of the year that has passed.

THE American Catalog
1905-1907

1164 pages, 8vo, half morocco (uniform with the preceding five-year volume). Price, $7.50

THIS latest volume of the permanent AMERICAN CATALOG is the seventh in the series, and like the one immediately preceding it is in octavo shape instead of quarto. Subscribers to previous volumes should order it early, as the edition is limited and the price will be advanced after a certain number is sold.

 This new volume, together with the preceding one, covers the period from January 1, 1900, to January 1, 1908, and thus provides a complete index, in two alphabets, for the past eight years—a period during which practically all books now in active demand have either been first published or were reissued. Consequently, the two form an up-to-date Finding Index of prime and practical value to booksellers and librarians.

 We have also prepared a separate supplementary volume, uniform binding, which contains the full-title record material appearing in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1905-06-07 (a separate alphabet for each year). This is offered at $6.00 per copy.

THE TOWER ANGEL

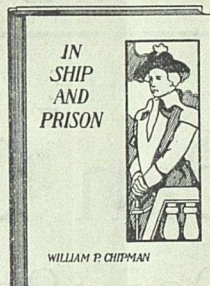

By MARY E. IRELAND

A beautifully told story coming from the skilful pen of Mrs. Ireland that will prove refreshing to all girls and many grown-ups.

The daughter of a humble churchkeeper is popularly called the Tower Angel because of her beauty. She comes to the notice of a wealthy couple who carry her off on European travels—but therein lies the charm of the tale.

IN SHIP AND PRISON

By WILLIAM P. CHIPMAN

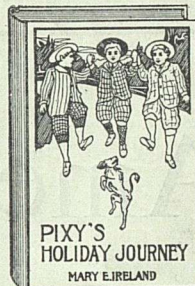

A rollicking tale of the Revolution as it was fought on the sea.

Captain Samuel Tucker is the hero, and there was no truer patriot or more valiant fighter on land or sea than he.

His prowess, his ingenuity, his capture by the British and his escape from their prisons will make every boy's heart swell with love of country and admiration for the brave Captain.

PIXY'S HOLIDAY JOURNEY

By MARY E. IRELAND

A dog, three boys and a holiday expedition cross country spells just one word if you read aright—FUN. At least it does in this book, for that is the combination and genuine fun is the result, as every enthusiastic reader will testify.

Adventures thick and fast befall this party from the moment they wave farewell to their homes until they sight them on their return.

Illustrated with eight halftones, cloth, 12mo
